Close-knit relationships are at the core of the UVA experience. And it goes beyond the fact that over half our classes have fewer than 20 students. Our professors—among the best in their fields—make a point to meet with their students outside of class, whether it's over coffee or dinner with their families. Our faculty members do more than teach: they debate, discuss, mentor and build relationships with students as future leaders and peers.

Our support also means career advising from year one and connecting students to professional opportunities that can pave the way for bold careers. From an internship with Google to a semester studying global sustainability in Hong Kong, we give our students countless opportunities to define their success and achieve it.

live.*

Here at the University of Virginia, we were born from a tenacious pursuit of a better way. And this spirit continues to inspire us in all of our endeavors. It inspires us as a faculty, carrying a tradition of teaching and learning through relationships. And it inspires us in who we are as individuals, living our lives in what has been dubbed the "Happiest City in America."

See all that this idyllic city of Charlottesville has to offer, and how our sense of purpose and place fuels our pursuit of a full life.
